

Marble “Breccia Viola”

Breccia Viola Marble is a natural stone that captivates with its chromatic dynamism. Characterized by a unique “brecciated” structure, it features fragments of crystalline white enveloped by a dense pattern of veins and arabesques that transition from deep violet to purple, and even to anthracite gray. Historically chosen to adorn noble palaces and period residences, today this marble represents the pinnacle of contemporary luxury. Each slab is an unrepeatable natural masterpiece, perfect for those seeking a decorative element that becomes the absolute focal point of the space. Marble with a white background and distinctive wine-colored veins, very similar to the exquisite calacatta viola.
